MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Intelligence

Chief, Arms Control Intelligence Staff

FROM:

Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT:

Arms Limitation Agreement

- l. Ken Adelman called yesterday to discuss the need to have something solid to work on and develop so that there is something for the parties to approve and agree on at the next meeting in the event that an arms limitation agreement has not been worked out for that occasion. That struck me as a pretty good idea and I said so.
- 2. He suggested that ACDA take the lead in doing this with input from out experts. I stepped back a little at this wanting to consult with people here and perhaps others. His argument is that if it is put into an interdepartmental process it will be wangled around and that it would be more expeditious if he took the lead in doing it as has been done in an earlier exercise (which I believe also was done with verification around the middle of 1985). He would welcome and count heavily on CIA input.
